Leaders Promote Economic Development for Springfield, MA

SPRINGFIELD, MA—The micro small business community demonstrates their dissatisfaction by actions taken by HUD officials and the inactions of our city leaders to promote economic development for Springfield micro small business community.

The City has been allotted 12.9 million dollars in the last three years by the federal Government earmarked for economic development which should include small business support and development including Hispanic, African American and other members of the micro and small business communities.

The business leaders posed question to City, State, and the National Leaders

1. Find out why HUD has taken such an action against the micro small business minority community in the City of Springfield, MA.

2. We ask that the Federal dollars which the cities in Springfield receives in part because of their large minority and poor population be utilized immediately to encourage micro small business development providing technical assistance and loan funding programs, as HUD is doing in many city across the USA.

Together as a community we need to reinforce that Government works for “WE the People.”

U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce Calls on Presidential Candidates to Address Small Business Needs

Hispanic Business Leaders Vow to Prioritize Small Business Agenda for 2008 Presidential Elections

Washington, DC - The United States Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (USHCC), the nation's largest advocate for over 2.5 million Hispanic-owned businesses, is calling on all Presidential candidates to remember and address the needs of small business owners. USHCC is particularly interested in each candidate's agenda for the growth of minority- and women-owned enterprises. USHCC Board Chair David C. Lizárraga said, "To date, the candidates have focused more on issues that will hurt small business than on those that will grow small business. We hear more about tax hikes, limiting trade policies, and the imposition of draconian immigration laws rather than plans and policies that will strengthen the nation's small businesses. The 2008 Presidential candidates cannot continue to ignore the small business community, particularly the Hispanic business community. As a major generator of jobs, small business is the backbone of America and a strong factor in the economic growth and stability of the U.S. economy. The presidential candidates and their respective political parties are committing a disservice to all Americans by failing to outline their a g e n d a s f o r t h e s m a l l b u s i n e s s o w n e r . " U.S. Census data shows that there are 26.8 million businesses in the United States. It is projected that, in 2008, there will be 2.7 million Hispanic-owned businesses in the U.S. generating more than $388 billion in annual revenue. By 2010, Hispanic-owned firms will represent 1 out of 10 businesses in the U.S. and generate over $465 billion a year in revenue.

"Small businesses employ 51% of all Americans and, over the past decade, small businesses created 60 to 80 percent of net new jobs in the U.S.," said Michael L. Barrera, USHCC President and CEO. "Small business is the engine that keeps jobs in the U.S. and helps the U.S. compete in a global economy. Ninety-seven percent of all small businesses have under 20 employees, and many are family-owned or self-employed. As such, failing to address the needs of small businesses ignores a vital segment of our economy. As the fastest growing business segment in the U.S., Hispanic business owners are going to hold candidates accountable for t h e i r s m a l l b u s i n e s s a g e n d a . "

In Massachusetts there are over 16,000 Latino owned businesses and we are also looking to our state and local leaders to establish small business retention assistance, technical assistance, loan assistance and a small business homebuyers programs. President of the Massachusetts Latino Chamber of Commerce Carlos Gonzalez stated “we are looking to meet with HUD officials to request economic development dollars earmarked to local communities to support small business development.”
