Maria Acuña Real Estate, LLC SPRINGFIELD—

Opened in October, 2001, Maria Acuña Real Estate LLC gained it’s foothold on the local market by being one of the first Latino owned real estate companies in the area. Owners Maria and Alfonso Acuña had help setting up their business from Attorney Jerry Katz, the legal entity, and David

Livingstone (CPA), financial matters.

“There is a large Latino community here and I wanted to make the dream of owning a home a reality,” stated Maria, “we were able to use language to connect with our clients.” It’s this connection with the community that has helped them do so well and grow to where they are today.

The company started as a home based business consisting of one broker, one agent and one administrative assistant. They’ve since outgrown their original location. “We knew we would grow, but never thought it would happen so quickly” says Alfonso, “with Maria’s real estate knowledge and high energy, we were able to expand our staff and attract a number of agents.”

U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce will Co-Host MSNBC Presidential Debate on "Black-Brown Issues"

Washington, DC - The United States Hispanic Chamber of Commerce (USHCC), the nation's largest advocate for over 2.5 million Hispanic-owned businesses, today announced that it will serve as co-host to MSNBC's Presidential Debate on "Black-Brown Issues" in Las Vegas four days before the Nevada caucuses. The debate will be telecast live by MSNBC and held at the Las Vegas Cashman Center on Tuesday, January 15, 2008 from 6:00-8:00 p.m. Pacific Standard Time.

"A few weeks ago, the U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce committed to hold the presidential candidates accountable on their stated commitment to small business, particularly the Hispanic business community," said David C. Lizárraga, USHCC Board Chair. "As a nonpartisan organization, the USHCC is proud to join the Nevada State Democratic Party, IMPACTO and 100 Black Men in hosting this important debate to ensure the candidates address critical small business issues including trade, taxes, healthcare, and immigration.

Small businesses are a major generator of jobs and the backbone of America, and as the fastest-growing business segment, Hispanic businesses are playing a larger than ever before role in the economic growth and stability of the U.S. economy."

Nevada is the second state in the nation to hold a presidential caucus and the first in the West to host an early window nominating contest. The state was chosen as an early state because of its high concentration of racial minorities. Hispanics, in particular, represent 23.5 percent of the overall population in the state.

"Nevada is among the states with the fastest rate of growth for Hispanic-owned businesses," said Elizabeth Gallagher, USHCC Board Vice-Chair and Las Vegas Latin Chamber Board Director. "According to the 2000 U.S. Census and 2002 Survey Data, Hispanics contribute close to $20 billion into Nevada's economy each year, and are a key factor in the vitality of the gaming and hospitality industries."

"Small businesses employ 51% of all Americans and, over the past decade, small businesses created 60 to 80 percent of net new jobs in the U.S.," said Michael L. Barrera, USHCC President and CEO. "Small business is the engine that keeps jobs in Nevada and helps the U.S. compete in a global economy. Ninety-seven percent of all small businesses have under 20 employees, and many are family-owned or self-employed."

In 2004, Presidential front-runners courted small business owners through targeted campaigns in battleground and swing states. Business-focused agenda items during the last Presidential campaign included less regulation, tax relief, lower health care costs, and litigation reform. "These issues continue to impact small business as well as the need for an employable workforce," added Mr. Barrera. "We look forward to hearing the candidates' platforms on small business issues."

The group also met with David Stanford, V.P. for Community Relations, Ed Roberts, Regional Admissions Director, and Mitch Soriano over lunch to discuss strategies to help more members of the Hispanic community prepare for careers in the medical profession. The group outlined a number of issues and ideas to benefit those interested in pursuing certificates and diplomas programs. "The idea is to develop strategies that will better serve the community," Stanford said.

One such strategy includes a "tech prep" program, which would focus on helping people who have completed GED programs to increase their skills prior to beginning school. This educational boost would be designed to give students the knowledge and confidence necessary to succeed in their program of study. "The coursework is rigorous, and we don't want the terminology to be so foreign to them," he said.

The group plans to meet again during the first quarter to outline strategies in 2008.
